

SPECIAL TRAINING SERIES

2013 Kentucky Residential Code Energy Conservation Construction Principles

HOSTED BY: The Kentucky Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction (DHBC) & Department of Energy Development and Independence (DEDI)

WHERE & WHEN: Classes will be held on various dates at locations around the state – see table below

INSTRUCTORS: Southface Energy Institute

FOCUS: Understanding the principles behind code requirements and how to quickly and efficiently apply these code-compliant techniques to your current construction practices

WHO SHOULD ATTEND: Home builders, subcontractors, construction professionals, code officials, and other interested individuals

Upcoming 2016 Classes

Course	Date	Location	Register
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	March 28	Madisonville	http://bit.ly/1RjKZ3v
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	March 30	Lexington	http://bit.ly/1oMHFqL
HVAC Sizing and Design Principles	March 31	Corbin	http://bit.ly/1TOZHpi
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	April 19	Ashland	http://bit.ly/1TOZKkT
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	April 20	Prestonsburg	http://bit.ly/1XYirlj
Thermal Envelope - Air Sealing and Insulation Principles	April 21	London	http://bit.ly/1oWk8Es

The cost of each class is $25. To view the full 2016 schedule, please visit:
www.mwalliance.org/kycodetraining

This training program is subsidized with funding from the U.S. Department of Energy. Images are from www.greenbuildingadvisor.com and www.comfortsolutionsnm.com.

